Inventor Gives Test of New Device Before Two Hundred Bathers in the Hudson River

NEW YORK, August 5.—A new style of life preserver, designed for expert and amateur swimmers as well as for all manner of vessels, was tried out in the Hudson River off 155th street yesterday afternoon. The device was worn by its inventor, Nathan Martino, of No. 704 Ninth avenue. It consists of a rubber belt, with two sacks, or inflatable balloons, just in front of the shoulders. Mr. Martino demonstrated that the life preserver can be worn when deflated underneath a bathing suit, or any ordinary clothing, and inflated within a second's time by means of the tubes, which hang over the shoulder. If a swimmer is suddenly afflicted with cramps he could reach for the tubes, put them in his mouth and inflate the bags before he could sink. This is what Mr. Martino said, and he demonstrated it by plunging into the Hudson River where the water is twenty feet deep, inflated the device and floated without effort. Two hundred bathers watched the demonstration.

The new life preserver is made of indiarubber. The one used by Mr. Martino yesterday is the only one ever made and cost $10. Mr. Martino said that duplicates could be made for half that sum. He made the assertion that it will support a person weighing three hundred pounds and has the advantage over the ordinary cork life preserver that any one on board ship or swimming can wear one deflated, without its figuring as any addition to the ordinary clothing. Mr. Martino, who says he weighs 210 pounds and looks every pound of it, floated about in the waters of the Hudson without effort.
